

“Indigenous Education Creates Healthy Communities”

Please join us for an evening of cultural sharing and conversation on traditional models of education, collaboration and community building. Participate in the conversation on how our education system can move forward with respect and understanding of traditional ways of knowing and being.

All SD71
Employees
Welcome!

Wednesday, April 17th, 2019
6:30 – 8:00 pm
(Doors open at 6 pm)

@ Vanier Secondary in the multipurpose room 182
Registration: events.sd71.bc.ca
Indigenous Education tab

Our guest presenter Andrea Landry is originally from Northwestern Ontario from a small community called Pays Plat First Nation but currently resides on Treaty 6 Territory on ~~Poundmaker~~ Cree Nation in Saskatchewan. She teaches Indigenous Studies for the University of Saskatchewan along with being a life skills coach through Red Echo Associates. She holds a master's in Communications and Social Justice from the University of Windsor, a degree in Child and Youth Care and a diploma in Social Work from Vancouver Island University. She is a mother, an Indigenous rights defender, a freelance writer, blogger, and strives to provide individuals, families, and communities with the tools they need to create change for themselves.

“By focusing on Indigenous systems, we can continue to heal layers of intergenerational trauma within our communities.”